Strange 'Ich und Gott' Mythologies

"God is on the side of the strongest artillery".—Napoleon.

God intended man to live in His image, the scribes and priests made "God" in their image, though.

* * * *

Men's ego plays many pranks. Having decided to give man complete freedom in shaping his own fate and destiny, the Creator enacted a plan by whish each EGO, you and I, has to work his way up, become a self-made person. The instituted process, then, is what one calls: Involution, Creation, Evolution and Perfection.

Each EGO, submitting to the plan of Creation is directed to partake of the atomic processes, producing matter and the phenomenal universe, and as he learns the art of controlling the ATOM, a cell is formed, multiplied, reproduced and he learns his lesson from ABC.

Through the evolution in organic matter the living EGO masters the basic functions of cellular life and, as he progresses through practice, the scale of organic LIFE rises, multicellular organism is produced, animal life appears upon the planet and in succeeding steps of improvements finally the mammal tops the formation.

Of course, with each step of the celluar LIFE a corresponding quality in the inner LIFE, the conscious life, of the entity, or Ego, is developed. The intelligence necessary to produce a cell increases with multiplication, until the EGO has learned to produce and control the functions of the many sided animal. But his destiny calls him to greater things even. He has to produce a living TEMPLE for the divine qualities of self-conscious LIFE to manifest. This final destiny, and urge, give him no rest. He must learn to control and master ALL creation, as the son and heir of the Creative Godhead.

At this stage of human unfoldment we write the date of Anno Domini 1944.

* * * *

The most peculiar situation confronts us. Man has evolved sufficient knowledge to be able to reside in and operate through, the highest and most fearfully complex organism in creation, the ARYAN body of human kind, but the EGO residing in that instrument is yet only part human, the rest still being in the stage of the undeveloped beast, or herd-mind. This combination produces the most revolting situations and reflexes, on one hand, and introduces the highest and loveliest divine aspirations on the other.

Thus we find ourselves in the midst of Act II of armaggedon, the second world war, with man's ingenuity, coupled to his beastly tiger qualities, running amuck on the face of the planet, while priest and nun pray for "divine aid" to murder the other fellows.

The scientific observer has no partisan inclinations. His observations are pure fact, his reasoning pure logic, his interest pure truth. Leafing through the records of time he discovers:

"Ich und Gott" (I and God) obessions were not an exclusive patent of the late Kaiser Wilhelm, the woodchoper of Dorn. Already in the early days of the Jews this notion intrudes itself. Joshua even had GOTT on his side who connived with him by stopping the sun to give Joshua a chance to do a good job murdering the other fellows. Gott is very obliging, even though Joshua called him Jehovah. A bloody Gott, no wonder Wilhelm delighted in reading the Bible and the Germans turned out to be what they are.

Lidice! Lublin!—why, my friends, read Numbers 31: 17, 18. "Now therefore kill every male among the little ones, and kill every woman that hath known man by lying with him. But all the women children, that have not known man by lying with him, keep alive for yourselves."

Thus, you see, Himmler was in perfect style and authentic Jewish company. He did exactly what the Bible says. Only he did it to the Jews, too, took them at their word as it were. "Ich und Gott".

What is this horrible phenomenon that manifests itself in Numbers, as quoted, and repeats itself even today, in our year of the Lord, when FDR conducts "divine services" from the White House over the radio and one finds the priests in Italy praying for Allied victory, while the priests in Bavaria pray for divine protection against the "horrible Americans" who are bombing civilians, women and children indiscriminately? Is it the wrath of God or the beastly nature of half-man?

The explanation is quite simple and self-evident. The EGO operating through these ARYAN bodies, has not evolved to the status of NOBILITY of ARYAN destiny. The ambition of being LORD of creation is here, but the qualities, the spiritual discipline and understanding of this tremendous power, with its inherent responsibilities, is lacking in the minds of the undeveloped EGOS who appear in white men's bodies .

And so the misery of slaughter proves the fallacy of "Ich und Gott". The bleeding heart yearns for the love of the Christ, for meekness and tenderness, thus in the midst of all this carnage men and women turn their faces toward Bethlehem remembering the promise of the Christ-child.

Man must be humbled when he has not sense enough to walk humbly before God, when he places his own EGO before the Lord his God and dictates to HIM, instead of learning from HIM: "Father, not my will, but THY Will be done!"

How Hit Started

The North Carolina mountaineers tell this fable:

Once there was a king and he hired him a prophet to prophet him his weather. And one evening the king he aimed to go fishing and the likeliest fishing place was right clost to his best girl's house so the king notioned to wear his best cloths. So he asked his prophet was hit liable to come on a rain before sundown. And the prophet says: "No, king, hit ain't a-coming on not even a sizzle-sozzel."

So the king he put on his best clothes and started towards the fishing place. And along came a farmer riding a jackass, and the farmer he says: "King, if'n you ain't aiming to git them clothes wetted you'd best go back home, because hit's a-coming on to rain a trash-mover and a gully-washer."

And the king says: "I hired me a high-wage prophet to prophet me my weather, and he allows hit ain't a-coming on even a sizzle-sozzle."

So the king went ahend and hit come on a trash-mover and a gully-washer, and the king's clothes was wetted and his best girl she seen him and laughed. And the king went home and throwed out his prophet and he says: "Fotch me that there farmer," and they fotched him. And the king says: "Farmer, I throwed out my other prophet and I aim to hire you to prophet me my weather from this onwards."

And the Farmer says: "King, I ain't no prophet. All I done this evening was to look at my jackass, because if'n its a-coming on to rain his ears lops down, and the lower they lays the harder hit's a-coming on to rain, and this evening they was a-laying and a-lopping."

So the king says: "Go home, farmer, I'll hire me the jackass." And that's how it started, and jackasses hev been holding high political positions ever since.—Hugh MacNair Kahler.

PROTEST BY RUSSIA ON ROME PAMPHLET REJECTED BY ALLIES

ROME, Italy,—Allied officials rejected a soviet demand for the suppression in Italy of a pamphlet on the life of Lenin. Russian authorities protested to allied headquarters that the pamphlet was insulting to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and that the author was an enemy of Russia and a Fascist. In refusing to interfere, allied officials informed the Russians that censorship and control of the press were regarded as undesirable unless related to military security. They also said freedom of expression was one of the benefits which it was their task to assure to the Italian people.

DEFENSE MOTION FOR NEW JUDGE UPHELD

'Government' Appeal Not Likely Against Final Ruling

"The Supreme Court usually follows the ilictions," said Mr. Dooley, and so it is, because if it does not follow the elections the President packs the courts to make them follow.

But there is one authority that does not submit to the dictates of 'majority' rule. It still upholds unswervingly the Principle of pure Justice, "What man soweth, THAT also shall he reap". Not even a 3 million 'majority' has any influence upon this authority, the final arbiter of men's lives.

It is wise for man to pause and ponder, since every soul on earth lives on borrowed time and soon the hour is here when he is called to face his Maker. Thus,—fear God and do the right! The arms of flesh have no power to give life. The 'Government' can take life, but it has none to give. All the tricks by which elections are stolen avail the thieves nothing when confronted with the final arbiter of men's worth.

For over six months the gavel fell and often even eliminated from the record the protests of 26 men and women, and of their 20 attorneys defending them, when they demanded the protection which the Constitution of the USA guarantees them. One of the defendants died from the terrific strain and his body was shipped naked to his impoverished widow. And now the gavel fell, inexorably . . It overruled the authority of the Chief Justice of the United States District Court of Columbia. For what man soweth THAT also shall he reap. O. John Rogge cannot avail himself of political influence against the Deity who rules over us all. The B'nai B'rith, who are an unholy influence at the White House, cannot throw themselves in the balance to expunge the record, for it is written indelibly and inexorably, just and true.

Let us bow our heads in prayer.

JUDGE'S DEATH MAY NECESSITATE NEW MASS 'SEDITION' HEARING

WASHINGTON,— The death of Presiding Justice Edward C. Eicher apparently brought to an end the 7-month-old mass sedition trial in federal district court.

Eicher, 65, a former Iowa congressman, died at his home in Alexandria, Va.

A justice department official, declining to be named, said the jurist's death would mean that the current trial would have to be terminated and the hearing started all over again.

The 26 defendants are accused of conspiring to disaffect the loyalty of U. S. armed forces and to set up a Nazi government in this country.

The trial opened last April with 30 defendants. One died later and 3 won severances.

With the judge's passing these possibilities stand out:

1. The trial might continue with another judge, provided enough of the defendants agree. Defendants unwilling to go ahead could be severed from the case.

2. If the trial is not continued, Atty. Gen. Biddle will have to decide whether the prosecution wants to make an entirely new start.

One justice department official, who declined to be quoted by name, said there appears to be precedent for putting in a new judge with the consent of the defendants.

WASHINGTON,— Justice Eicher died Wednesday night. Judge Proctor postponed seditious conspiracy trial until December 7, when a mistrial is certain to be declared, thus ending seven months of farcical proceedings. The case will probably be abandoned.

ZONE NUMBER YOUR CHRISTMAS BROOMS

Bear in mind that during the holiday seasons the mails are overloaded and the P. O. employs extra, and often unexperienced, help who don't know all locations. Many people are ordering gift subscriptions of The Broom for their friends but few endeavor to send us the correct zone numbers.

If your own zone number does not appear on your address stamp on the paper write us immediately to insure prompter distribution during the holiday season.

The Missing Charter

An Associated Press correspondent related his long and unsuccessful search of official Washington for the scroll of the famous Atlantic Charter—the immortal document evolved in a dramatic midocean conference between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill, promising freedom to the small nations of the earth. Inquiries at the library of congress, the state department and even the White House failed to disclose the whereabouts of the famous declaration. Whereupon the zealous correspondent gave it up for lost.

It is not unlikely that most of the small nations of the world have reached the same conclusion; at least, so far as they are concerned, they probably have listed it as missing. Certainly the renowned charter isn't in London; almost anybody in India or Burma could tell you that—and even China must have suspicions. It can't be in Russia, as Finland, Poland, Romania, Bulgaria and some other Balkan and Baltic states will testify. Certainly it isn't to be found in Iran. Several South American and Central American republics may be wondering about the charter, too; but they already had the Monroe doctrine, so they probably didn't place a great value on it.

A rumor that the sacred scroll was misplaced at Dumbarton Oaks is not seriously credited; some little fellow is said to have started quoting from it during that session, but was quickly shushed out of respect for Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin. It was heard from once or twice during the recent presidential campaign, but mostly in the sarcastic remarks of the opposition.

Souvenir hunters who would like to see the Atlantic Charter placed under glass like the Declaration of Independence, naturally are disappointed at its mysterious disappearance. And even our most rabid anti-isolationists will be more or less chagrined at the reply to the correspondent's inquiry of the White House:

"I'm sorry; I can't tell you where it is."

There is just a possibility, of course, that Henry Wallace may have it tucked away in his inside pocket with the idea of using it for future reference.—San Diego Union.

Editor's Note: The reporting correspondent failed to look under the heel of Stalin's boot. That's where the 3 placed this great document for safe keeping at Teheran. In return Stalin won't mention the correspondence between Churchill and FDR which Tyler Kent read nor say anything about India, as long as they let him gobble up China and most of Europe.

PEARL HARBOR PROBE DEMAND KEPT ALIVE

WASHINGTON,—Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo) kept his demands for a Pearl Harbor investigation before congress with an assertion that there must not be an American "replica of the Dreyfus case". (Alfred Dreyfus was a French officer convicted of treason and later exonerated.)

"The American people have not been told the truth about Pearl Harbor", he said in a statement inserted in the Congressional Record. "And when the complete story is told and the whole truth known, the American people will be shocked, angered and grieved—deeply grieved and sorely wounded."

BAN JAP LAND HOLDERS, FARM BUREAU ASKS

A resolution and pledge designed to prevent all classes of Japanese from ever again owning or renting land in San Diego county was approved by directors of the San Diego county farm bureau at a meeting in the chamber of commere.

The resolution, which originated in Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo counties, cited farming practices used by Japanese in California which were injurious to the land. Farmers and land owners who sign the document will be pledged against allowing their property to come under control of "any person who is a member of the Japanese race or of Japanese ancestry". Copies of the resolution and pledge will be distributed to farm bureau centers throughout San Diego county, it was decided.

Jews Cry for More Persecution

Phineas J. Biron, columnist in the B'nai B'rith Messenger of Los Angeles, the official organ of the Jewish organizations of that name, writing in the Nov. 24 issue, takes the attitude that now that 95% of the Jews have voted for FDR, the federal administration ought to deliver. The price they ask for is DESTRUCTION of the Bill of Rights. Reminds us of Salome asking for John's head on a platter, to silence his voice in the wilderness.

What Biron voiced in this official organ of the Jewish international organization, which is behind the subversive anti-Defamation League with its un-American OGPU that has its spies and stooges in every department of the federal administration, and even in the White House, is being voiced repeatedly by organized Jewry in the USA. These poor benighted people do not realize that it is the Bill of Rights that protects them in the USA from being treated as they demand that C. LEON de ARYAN be treated.

3000 years of reaping what they sowed has not taught this race of alien subversives anything yet. They still believe that the universe is out of step with them and therefore they are right and the rest of the world is wrong and "persecutes these poor innocent refugees".

For the past six years they have insisted that THE BROOM be proscribed and boycotted. They succeeded commercially to threaten advertisers and they succeeded officially to have us indicted in Washington upon orders from the White House. But as long as the Bill of Rights is in force they have not been able to stop THE BROOM because their claim is: that since they now control politically the trend of the new deal, they have voided the Constitution, therefore the Department of Justice should take steps and simply persecute us out of existence, to please them.

The people of the USA think differently. Advertisers, who were browbeaten through boycott into withdrawing their advertising, do not believe that the Jew can dictate to them what they privately may do with their money. Subscribers who have been hounded by the FBI don't take kindly to this persecution and those who still believe that their oath to the Constitution supercedes the insistent remands of the B'nai B'rith that the Bill of Rights be destroyed, simply are using again this Christmas season to send their gifts to this editor who refuses to be browbeaten or corrupted, but lives up to the best tradition of a free press.

Now these Jews don't like it that there are Americans who are Americans and really believe in what the Bill of Rights stands for. They don't know when they are well off. They want the bulwark that stands between them and persecution removed. They consider themselves a privileged super-race who may persecute those of a different mind and religion.

They are so blind they don't understand principle. They are actually dumb. And they claim to be smart.

THE BROOM will never yield to their dictation. This editor will stand by his oath to his last breath. They have crowded us even into jail, but they couldn't keep us there. And THE BROOM still issues because our FAITH is in God and we fear God but are not afraid of all the Jews that ever lived. Who are these foolish people who insist that freemen be persecuted inspite of the laws of the countries they live in?

And then they claim that they are the victims of persecution.

We have never advocated that the Jewish press be silenced. On the contary, we advocate general reading by all Americans of the Jewish papers that each and everyone be thoroughly acquainted with the true charater of the people who always cry "crucify HIM, crucify HIM" when they cannot silence the voice of truth otherwise. Let everybody read what they say CONFIDENTIALLY among their own kind. Here it is:

Strictly Confidential

Listen Here

It's time to look seriously into the activities of C. Leon de Aryan of San Diego, Calif. . . . This gentleman is the editor of "The Broom," a pro-Fascist newspaper. . . ."The Broom" was named in a July, 1942, Federal indictment as one of the agencies participating in a plot against the United States armed forces—yet it still circulates.

Dictatorship of the Proletariat

Anyone who has doubted so far where government by labor union leads, has it clearly presented by Joe Padway, the legal counsellor of the AFL, who addressed the federation's convention at New Orleans and announced that the presses in the state of Florida and Arkansas are going to stop turning and the workers will stop building houses, etc., because the people in those two states voted to outlaw the closed shop coercion of the labor racketeers.

Not many people seem to know that union officials take an OATH of loyalty to the union which conflicts with the oath of loyalty to the U. S. Constitution and the laws made under it, therefore the unions place thmselves above the Constitution and the state governments, and this was upheld in the notorious Supreme Court decision rendered by the majority, under the then Justice Byrnes, in which the union was authorized to commit highway robbery against truck drivers entering New York.

Since black slavery has been abolished by Lincoln but labor union slavery introduced by FDR, one can see now how the seeds of civil war have been sown. Is FDR going to send out the army to uphold the demand of the labor racketeers against Florida and Arkansas as he did against the Montgomery Ward company?

Just imagine, a president who took an oath to uphold the Constitutuion and then by devious ways enthrones the labor racket above the Constitution to insure his continuation in power. The issue before the sovereign states of Florida and Arkansas is clear cut. Will FDR side with his oath to the U. S. Constitution or will he uphold the labor union officials in their oath of loyalty to the labor union?

It is the Union of the 48 states against the labor racket unions of the AFL and CIO.

Who Began the Bombing ?

By VERA BRITTAIN

. . . Having established me, to his own satisfaction, as the dupe of "Nazi Statistics", Mr. Shirer takes me to task for "bitterness" against Air Marshall Harris. "It was not Harris," he writes, "who invented the Strategy of Terror, but Hitler. Harris—Miss Brittain and her friends ought to know—is merely answering it, answering fire with fire since nothing else will do." Let us therefore examine this matter more closely.

At the Disarmament Conference of 1932, Italy proposed the abolition of the bombing airplane, and was supported by Germany, Russia, and the United States under President Hoover. That humanitarian proposal ultimately was shipwrecked by the British government through its representatives Lord Londonderry and Sir John Simon, who, in the words of Hugh Dalton, now President of the Board of Trade, "from the beginning . . . resisted and obstructed."

Why did they resist and obstruct? Because Britain wanted to retain the bombing airplane for use against native tribes on the Northwest frontier of India. And according to Time—usually a very well-informed magazine—the person responsible for "developing" this "pacification by bombing" policy which "kept unruly Indian tribes more or less under control," was none other than Sir Arthur Harris, the present head of Bomber Command.

In view of these facts, even Mr. Shirer can hardly acquit Britain of responsibility for the continued existence of the weapon with which Hitler bombed Warsaw, Rotterdam, and Belgrade!

Further light on Mr. Shirer's contention that we—i.e. the British and Americans—"did not start the bombing of great cities" recently has been thrown by the publication of Bombing Vindicated by J. M. Spraight, former Principal Assistant Secretary of the Air Ministry. In this book, Mr. Spraight, who presumably knows what he is talking about, not only makes the surprising statement that Britain began the "strategic" bombing of Germany before Germany bombed Britain, but also suggests that the British should be proud of having done so. He writes: "Because we were doubtful about the psychological effect of propagandist distortion of the truth that it was we who started the strategic bombing offensive, we have shrunk from giving our great decision of May, 1940, the publicity which it deserved. That, surely, was a mistake. It was a splendid decision. It was as heroic, as self-sacrificing, as Russia's decision to adopt her policy of 'scorched earth'. It gave Coventry and Birmingham, Sheffield and Southampton, the right to look Kiev and Kharkov, Stalingrad and Sebastapol, in the face. Our Soviet allies would have been less critical of our inactivity in 1942 if they had understood what we had done."

Can Mr. Shirer still maintain that Germany, and Germany alone, began the process which at long last has led to that crime against humanity known as "saturation bombing"?

Important If True

Representative Sol Bloom of New York makes the somewhat disconcerting announcement that he finds the Constitution of the United States unconstitutional. Mr. Bloom bases his statement on the allegation that the convention which drafted the Constitution was not called for that purpose, but to amend the Articles of Confederation. Under established parliamentary law, he explains, it is illegal for a convention called for one purpose to undertake some other purpose. Hence the Constitution is not constitutional.

This should be good news to Attorney General Biddle, who seems to have regarded the Constitution as something of a nuisance anyhow, and to the new deal supreme court, which appears to have difficulty at times in deciding exactly what the ancient document means.

The old charter has done fairly well for better than 150 years, in spite of certain attributes once relegated to the "horse and buggy" age, and it's too late to go back and do it all over. The big worry these days is not how constitutional the Constitution is, but how closely we can stick to it in the midst of assorted wild-eyed theories of government.—San Diego Union.

'UNLAWFUL TO DO GOOD ON THE SABBATH DAY'

Sol Bloom is merely using the ancient Jewish trick of argumentation which Jesus refuted when he asked the scribes and Pharisees, whose representative in Congress is a Sol Bloom character, whether they would not pull a lamb out of a well on the Sabbath day should it have dropped in. The Jews being utterly avaricious, of course would 'break the Sabbath' not for the lamb's sake whose throat they would slit and bleed it to death, but for the "investment".

Shloim Bloom added in his argument: "Any one of the states could have raised a point of order." And there is where he gave his sophistry away. Under parliamentary law when none of the sovereign states protested the scraping of the Articles of Confederation, in place of merely amending them, the states assented that that the action of the convention was taken to execute the purpose for which it was called. That makes it legal and constitutional because WE the people are the government and what we covenant IS the constitutional Constitution.

Put the Blame where it Belongs

Special Attorney General Norman M. Little has been fired by the President, for insubordination. Littell charges that the Department of Justice is not conducted along principles of good government. The Congress started an investigation and suddenly stopped.

Why ?

Because as in the Pearl Harbor affair the blame falls on the President. The Congress dares not expose the President, because if it does it would have to impeach him and too many have ridden into Congress on FDR's coat-tails to expose and impeach their job-giver. These members of Congress are not even in office in their own rights but beholden to their Boss.

Littell charges that Attorney General Francis Biddle runs the office not for the public good but like an affair among friends—which it is not. Specially he charges that Biddle favors Thomas G. Corcoran, who opened a private lawyer's office right in the Department of Justice, defending corporations attacked by the "Government" in court.

The public gets the impression that Biddle is a corrupt official. But the blame is not Biddle's, he merely obeys orders of the man who fired Littell.

Why is it that everybody closes his eyes to the fact that FDR hires and fires and he could have fired Biddle. But he didn't. Does that not show that Corcoran had influences which Biddle dared not oppose if he wanted to keep his job?

Biddle has seen the President pardon Earl Browder for political reasons. Biddle has seen that Jimmy Petrillo got his 4 million dollars a year from the radio corporations while the Montgomery Ward company was taken over by armed force. Biddle has seen FDR elected four times after Earl Browder, when opposing FDR previous to Hitler's attack on Stalin, broadcast that FDR had committed enough crimes to be in jail for the end of his life.

Biddle knows that if he is fired a flood of persecutions will be let loose that will repeat the activities of the Holy Inquisition, only this time the victims won't be Jews. Biddle was ordered against his better sense to institute the present "Moscow sedition trial", he made public announcement at the time, which was published by the New York Post, that it will merely produce headlines, since that alone it could do with the 30 innocent victims of Sam I. Rosenman.

The fact of Pearl Harbor, of Tyler Kent where the Supreme Court refuses to order constitutional relief, of Browder's pardon, of Petrillo's victory and of the Byrnes' supreme court ruling, legalizing highway robbery by labor unions, proves that Biddle would have none but the proverbial snowball's in hell chance were he to stand up on his hind legs to enforce the laws according to his oath and not according to orders from FDR.

A nation that has no more spine than to accept Petrillo and Byrnes' ruling, naturally has no righteous call to blame Biddle. When the American people will enter the court of public opinion with clean hands, they will be entitled to throw rocks at Biddle.

Laughlin Filed New Petition

Attorney James J. Laughlin filed on Nov. 25 in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, a petition for rehearing in the case of James J. Laughlin vs. Edward C. Eicher.

Mr. Laughlin was barred from the sedition trial on July 5, 1944 by Edward C. Eicher, the presiding Judge, after Mr. Laughlin had filed with the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives a petition for impeachment. This action on the part of Judge Eicher was unprecedented. Laughlin immediately filed in the United States Court of Appeals a petition for a writ of mandamus. A bitter fight developed within that Court. Two Judges, Henry W. Edgerton and Thurman Arnold—New Deal appointees—sided with Judge Eicher. Chief Justice D. Lawrence Groner and Harold L. Stephens held that Eicher's order was without legal foundation. However, the fifth member of the court was absent and Laughlin was denied relief by an equally divided court. He filed a petition for rehearing and that was also denied by an equally divided court. When the fifth judge, Justice Miller, returned, Laughlin filed a new petition for mandamus. Another bitter fight developed. However on November 13th the court divided 3 to 2 in upholding Eicher. A vigorous dissent was filed by Judge Stephens and Chief Justice Groner joined in this dissent. In the petition for rehearing it set forth "that on May 1, 1944, another attorney in the sedition trial, Albert W. Dilling, filed a petition for impeachment of Judge Eicher, with the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and that Judge Eicher paid no heed to same. The petition for rehearing called attention to the fact that Eicher himself injected the impeachment matters into the proceeding by permitting Ira Chase Koehne, who is already being sued by Ernest F. Elmhurst for violation of professional confidence, to go into the matter."

The petition for rehearing condemned the majority opinion in these words: "After all it is not the function of this Court to pass on the merits of the petition for impeachment. This Court cannot decide the impeachment and cannot sit in judgment of same. The founders of our Government, in their wisdom, have delegated that matter to another branch of the Government. At the proper time and in the proper setting the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives will consider the impeachment petition and appraise the allegations contained therein." The petition for rehearing stated this:- "Serious and substantial constitutional questions are involved in this case. If respondent (Eicher) had a right to expel petitioner (Laughlin) for the filing of a petition for impeachment, then this Court is placing its stamp of approval on conduct that may lead to tyranny and despotism. It is contended that any citizen of the United States has a right to file petition for impeachment. In fact, under certain circumstances, it would be the duty of the citizen to do so. Three quarters of a century ago the great and renowned Robert E. Lee, the ablest military man our Nation ever produced, said that 'duty' was the most sublime word in the English language. When petitioner as a citizen of the United States and a member of the bar of this Court and of District Court, believed that respondent by his conduct of the sedition case was bringing District Court into disrepute, and—according to the public press—making judiciary of the District of Coloumbia the laughing stock of the Nation, he believed it to be his duty to take the only step open to him in order to protect the good name of the Courts of the District of Coloumbia, by filing a petition with the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, in accordance with the Constitution of the United States and rules of the United States House of Representatives."

Protest Doukhobors Treatment

His Excellency
The Minister of Justice
Dominion of Canada
Ottawa, Canada

Dear Sir:

Advices have become current in the United States of America of the inhumane and subbestial treatment being accorded the Doukhobors of British Columbia. That Louis Popoff was murdered at Oakalla penitentiary for no other offense than that of living in conformity to the religious convictions of the Spiritual Community of Christ of British Columbia. That the fate of many more now in custody hang in the balance—their brethren despairing for their lives and freedom. Is this bloody, sadistic page needed to adorn the recorded exploits of the great Episcopalian and Masonic British Empire? Are the Japanese and Germans not sufficient objects of hate, malice and wholesale homicide, that a super-induced venom must be unleashed upon a helpless minority of British Columbia: the gentle, peace-loving, spiritual-abiding, members of the Spiritual Community of Christ of British Columbia?

These Doukhobors are the most consistently Christian settlement in the world today. They are non-militarists, and are not actuated by motives of treachery or subversive activity. They are solid tillers of the soil, and have contributed several generations to the clearing and fruitfulness of their section of Western Canada. Where, indeed, is the vaunted charity, justice and mercy of the mighty British Empire, or, has it always been a sham, a pretense, or a veneer? Is the Dominion of Canada incapable of protecting a peaceful minority within its midst from the depredations, exploitations and mob-violence of the mercenary element of its population and penal personel?

We adjure you in the name of Christ, and common human decency, to exemplify justice —in protecting the humane and Christian rights of the Doukhobors of British Columbia.

ARKANSAS, FLORIDA ANTI-CLOSED SHOP LAWS HIT AT PARLEY

NEW ORLEANS,— The general counsel of the American Federation of Labor shook a boycott bludgeon at Florida and Arkansas, states which adopted anti-closed shop laws in the November 7 election.

Joseph Padway, speaking at the A. F. L. national convention, said: "If Arkansas and Florida attempt to inforce open-shop laws, our answer will be that the printers will not print, the bricklayers will not lay brick, and members of the other trades will lay down their tools rather than work with scabs."

SUITS FILED

Padway announced that A. F. L. lawyers have filed suits with the U. S. Supreme Court questioning the constitutionality of anti-union laws adopted by "a number of states", adding that the high court previously had upheld the "union member's constitutional right not to work with nonunion men."

Assuring convention delegates that closed shop contracts in Arkansas and Florida war plants "are entirely safe because the moment there is a dispute the War Labor Board will take jurisdiction and tell the states to keep hands off", Padway added that the situation might become "serious" in peacetime if states attempted to enforce laws prohibiting closed shops.

ALABAMA TEST CASE

He said that a test suit against Alabama's "anti-union law" is pending before the supreme tribunal, as is an appeal from the conviction of R. J. Thomas, C. I. O. Automobile Workers' president, for violation of a Texas law forbidding solicitation for union membership without a license.

FBI HEAD HONORED

Sheriff Bert Strand and Chief of Police C. E. Peterson, of San Diego, were so delighted at the departure of Harold Nathan who had been in charge of the FBI office here, that each pinned a badge, No. 40, on him making him an honorary deputy sheriff and detective inspector respectively.

Nathan said that his transfer to Richmond, Va., might signify the end of the war as it did in the first world war. Then why did FDR not transfer him sooner?

FBI SHIFT SEEN WAR END OMEN

Here's as good an omen as any when the European war will end.

Harold Nathan, FBI chief, related that two months after he took charge of the FBI office in Richmond, Va., in 1918, the armistice of the First World War was signed .

Nathan leaves San Diego, again to take over the Richmond office.

"If history repeats itself Hitler should fold two months after I reach Richmond," said Nathan.

'POLITICAL ROLE' OF CATHOLIC CHURCH HIT

PITTSBURGH,—Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert, general secretary of the federal council of the Churches of Christ in America, called for cooperation between Protestants and the Roman Catholic church, but expressed "resolute opposition" to what he termed "clericalism" by the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

"We must make a clear distinction between the faith and piety of Roman Catholics and the political power which the Roman Catholic hierarchy seeks to exert for its own institutional ends," Cavert said in a report to the council's three-day biennial meeting, which opened here recently.

"Toward the latter, we must manifest a resolute opposition," he said. "We can never acquiesce in the clericalism which has become all too familiar in the history of countries in which the Roman Catholic church has controlled the affairs of state.

"By 'clericalism' we mean the organized effort of the hierarchy to achieve political power by secular means for purposes of social domination. Against this policy we must take an uncompromising stand."

DeMILLE WON'T PAY UNION ASSESSMENT

HOLLYWOOD,— Cecil B. DeMille, movie director and radio producer, is risking the loss of his $500-a-week radio salary over a single dollar.

He refused to pay to the American Federation of Radio Artists a $1 special assessment for a fund to oppose Proposition 12 the "right to work" measure, on the California ballot Nov. 7.

The A. F. R. A. local said that DeMille was put on the dues and assessments delinquency list Nov. 1 but that no action would be taken by its board until Dec. 1. Suspension or expulsion of members who refuse or fail to pay dues and assessments is possible, said Claude L. McCue, A.F.R.A. secretary. And the A.F.R.A. constitution, he added, provides that radio artists must be in good standing to appear on the air.

LINCOLN'S FINANCIERS

Joseph Seligman, the eminent New York banker, who was also a Ben B'rith, had close relations with Lincoln throughout the war. Seligman was frequently called to the White House to discuss fiscal matters, for it was he who floated many of the government's war bond issues. Adolphus Solomons' one of the earliest Jewish residents of Washington and long a member of B'nai B'rith, was often consulted by Lincoln for Solomon's firm did a large part of the government printing. He helped arrange Lincoln's two inaugurations and is said to have gone over the proofs of the invitations with the President. It was in Solomons' printing establishment that the last photograph of Lincoln, taken on the day of his assassination, was made—the picture showing the President sharpening one of Solomons' pencils for Lincoln's son.

FLORIDA'S CHECK ON UNIONS UPHELD

TALLAHASSEE, (Fla)— The Florida Supreme Court ruled that labor organizations "so vitally affect the public they may be regulated by law like other organizations, and labor union business agents may be regulated in their conduct like insurance agents, real estate brokers and others."

The unanimous decision upheld a 1943 legislative act requiring unions to make reports showing their name, location and name and address of their officers.

DIPLOMACY IN DARKNESS

(From the St. Louis Post-Disptach)

So now the United States and Great Britain are resuming diplomatic relations with Italy. In this instance, one can only suspect it means relations in secrecy. When the terms of the Italian armistice are still known only to a few top officials, how could it be otherwise? Why is the armistice secret after all this time? It is hard to conceive how any consideration of military security could enforce such a policy. If not military security, then what is it?

There are very few notable personages in public life today who did not at one time consider themselves a failure and think that they were through. It's a period, or experience, in life that comes to most of us. In fact, if it doesn't, I am sure that we wouldn't amount to much to ourselves or to anyone else.

It's defeat that fans the flame of ambition and lights the way to one's goal. You matter in this world when you say in your heart that you are not through. And then prove it!

WHERE PEACE STARTS

A basic feature of future world peace is stressed in a recent address by Harold B. Butler, British minister to Washington, on the text:

"Peace is going to depend on the man in the street and on the farm. If he wants it hard enough, he is quite likely to get it. If he doesn't know enough or care enough to work for it, he probably won't, but will find himself swept into another and much worse war in another 20 years or so."—San Diego Union.

TWO DOCTORS SCOFF AT VITAMIN VALUE TO NORMAL PERSON

CHICAGO,— Two North Carolina physicians question justification for "the indiscriminate use of vitamins, sold over the counter to people who have no obvious disease," and say there is no evidence to substantiate the theory that all persons, normal or otherwise, should take vitamin preparations.

Writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Drs. Julian M. Ruffin and David Cayer, of Durham, N. C., say a study of the effects of vitamins on 200 students at the Duke university school of medicine at Durham has shown that the administration of vitamin supplements to a group of "apparently normal persons, consuming the usual American diet," had no demonstrable effect.

In another Journal article, Lt. Col. Philip S. Hench, army medical corps, says attempts to use penicillin in treating rheumatoid arthritis had been futile. He advises that future use of penicillin in treating that disease should be discontinued "at least until the material is available in something approaching inexhaustible quantities."

NO GREAT ALMONER

"I cannot find any authority in the Constitution for making the federal government the great almoner of public charity throughout the United States. If we dwarf the states into mere provinces we will thereby vest all our sovereignty in an absolute central power against which the spirit of liberty has so often, in so many countries struggled in vain. When the power of those created shall become subordinate to the thing of creation, we shall see 'the beginning of the end.' " —President Franklin Pierce in 1854.

Looking Ahead

Head and Hands

By GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

WHEN I was nine years old, my father sent me horseback on an errand to a nearby farm. Our neighbor, an elderly man, was hoeing in his vegetable garden when I dismounted, but he came to the barn gate to talk with me. While we stood there, a cattle buyer passed in a single-seated vehicle pulled by a spirited horse. The salutation between my two elders was cool and stilted.

Childlike, I inquired with frankness, "Don't you like Mr. Moore?" Then my neighbor began "educating" me. He informed me in a low tone (implying a great deal) that Moore was a rich man. Without saying it in so many words, he hinted that the trader was not to be trusted and that his wealth proved the point. My next question was from the heart: "How much money can a man have and be honest?"

Honestly Mistaken THOUGHTFULLY he said, "In these parts, a man can't get together more than $10,000 in a lifetime unless he carries on some right shady business." He did not say how he arrived at the figure; probably he was speaking from a long life's wealth of observations. I knew he was sincere, but many years had passed before I knew how wrong he was. His words were a figment of class prejudice.

Even in the United States we have some class prejudice, and it's a curse. A high executive of the U. S. Treasury recently permitted himself to say, "No man who works with his hands can be worth $5,000 a year." People who work with their hands think, too In fact the most effective thinking to achieve military victory in this war has been done at the workbench and between plow handles.

Thinking Pays Well AN equipment manufacturer in Cleveland, Ohio, has used wage incentives for 20 years In his plant, workers get more pay when they do faster and better work. They like the idea and so does the employer. The men put their thoughts on increasing volume so they could draw better wages and the price of a welding machine that used to exceed $500 slid down below $200. Even the buyer was benefitted.

Under pressure of war demands and hurry-up orders, this pay-for-thinking plan really shined. Output increased. Users bought new equipment 60% cheaper. The firm lowered its percentage of profit and still upheld earnings. Average wage of workers climbed above $100 a week. The government didn't like it, however, and assessed the company an extra 1.6 million dollars a year.

This firm is using our only safe pattern for post-war prosperity—wages up and prices down. Both depend on production efficiency. This plan means buying power at home and ability to compete in foreign markets. Labor and industry both favor the principle. Inefficiency, child of class prejudice, after the war, will bar us from foreign markets, make goods costly at home, jobs scarce, and pay low.

Elijah Discovers Diogenes

THE OLYMPIAN SOCIETY, INC.
Mt. Olympus, Temecula, California

Mountain of God Nov. 23rd, 1944

My Dear Sir:

I am glad you got here today in an introductory call and you will receive a co-operation from here because of your honesty in crusading for justice. Still, we have to guard against placing pearls before swine, or placing ourselves where the swine turn and rend us. You know that saying "better a live dog than a dead lion." Our most vital and important need right now is the finding of those who have physical bodies and obedient to the Law of God. I know countless thousands of Souls and Spirits who are with us but have no dense or physical bodies to function on the earth plane.

You were a Greek in a former incarnation by the name of "Diogenes" looking for an honest man at mid-day with a lantern. Well, you arrived on this Mt. about mid-day this day, still looking for honesty and integrity, or something that is really dependable.

James Churchward was the Author of "The Lost Continent of Mu" or Lemuria and also "The Children of Mu". The final sinking of Lemuria was about 20,000 years ago. I think you could get these books from the city Library, the last printings were in 1931-32, unless there was one lately. Such books are very informative as the Colonel James Churchward who wrote them was no ordinary man.

I am enclosing some writings on a Bible series for your perusal, and may the blessings of of the All Father surround you and strengthen and sustain you always.

Sincerely yours,— EVERETT H. LEA

Editor's Note: Mr. Lee is supposed to be a reincarnation of the Jewish prophet Elijah. He favors the Allied arms in this war, supports buying of war bonds and teaches that Jesus Christ and the White Brotherhood have appointed him, Elijah, "to direct the program of the Great White Lodge at the will of the All High".

In his multigraphed "Lessons" Elijah explains how he used a "perfect weapon" to open the graves of the dead and let loose a horde of souls who helped the Russians drive back the Nazis. He is a most remarkable fellow and has it all over the Ballards of the "I AM" group. The Ballards also have contact with the masters "on the other side" and dissolved, dematerialized, a submarine in the Panama Canal.

When the "White Brotherhood" finds nothing better to do than engage in warfare, it's high time for sane people to redeem themselves from black magic influence.

Creating pandemoinum is not the function of the divine hierarchy. But half-developed minds are always caught in the draft that results when they tap the source of power. One can see what happens to pinhead politicians whose power in public life goes to their heads.

The White Brotherhood Lodge is composed of great souls whose wisdom and interest has emancipated them from the struggle for power in which half-human beings engage. Pandemonium is the antithesis of the Kingdom of God. Pandemonium destroyed Atlantis and Lemuria. War is pandemonium, it has no place in the lives of great souls. Only minds who are yet half beast seek salvation in war to make "peace".

Peterson Sues Elijah

DECLARES HE ENTICED WIFE AND CHILDREN TO 'MOUNTAIN OF GOD'

LONG BEACH,— His children have been moved to the "Mountain of God" (near San Diego) by his wife and another man who called himself the "Son of God", Victor G. Peterson of Lomita alleged here—but unlike Mahomet, Peterson is unable to go to the mountain.

So, he said, he did the next best thing—he filed a complaint for custody of the children, naming both his wife and the other man, in Superior Court here.

"My wife is under the spell and influence of this man, Everett H. Lee, who calls himself the 'Son of God,' " the complaint alleges.

"He has influenced her to sell all our war bonds and our home and move with him to the 'Mountain of God' near Temecula and take our four children with her.

"He claims that the entire Pacific Coast is 'in danger of immediate submersion into the 'ocean' and that his mountain—on which he is lord and master—is the only 'safe' place for human beings."

Peterson charged through his attorney, Clifton A. Hix, that Lee, in "a tantrum of fervor", would plead with God for the destruction of Allied military and politcal leaders and for "their removal from the earth".

Peterson's four children are Kanya, daughter, 14; Victor H., son, 12; Theano, daughter, 9; and Vernon, son, 7.

"I still love my wife, though, and feel sure I can bring her around once she leaves this man's spell," Peterson said. "I am not 'suing for divorce."

"One estimate sets the value of confiscated, stolen and destroyed public property of European Jewry alone at six billion dollars.

Schweinhaut Hearing Put Off; Pelley Lawyer Opposes Nomination

LANGER ONLY MEMBER OF SUBCOMMITTEE TO ATTEND SESSION

WASHINGTON,— William J. Powers, a Chicago attorney who has been representing William Dudley Pelley, former Silver Shirt leader, in the mass sedition trial here, appeared before a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee of Henry A. Schweinhaut as a District Court justice.

A hearing on the nomination, sent to the Senate by President Roosevelt, was to have been held by the subcommittee, but it was postponed until December 8 because only one committee member was present.

This was Senator Langer, Republican, of North Dakota, who has taken the floor twice in recent weeks to condemn the conduct of the sedition trial and to demand that Attorney General Biddle call it off as a mistake.

Senator McCarran, Democrat, of Nevada, chairman of the Judiciary Committee and the subcommittee on the Schweinhaut appointment, was out of the city and Senator Chandler, Democrat, of Kentucky, the third subcommittee member, could not attend.

Mr. Powers told reporters he was pleased that Senator Langer postponed consideration since it would give him more time to prepare arguments against the Schweinhaut nomination.

Until now there was no known opposition to the nomination and a favorable report was anticipated. Mr Schweinhaut, a native of the District and who now resides in Chevy Chase, Md., is a special assistant to the Attorney Geneneral and formerly was an assistant United States attorney here.

SPOKEN TESTIMONY MISSING AS SEDITION JURY SEES EXHIBITS

WASHINGTON,— The sedition trial, which during its seven months has brought nearly every legal situation possible to a courtroom, achieved something new — a mute session.

After these months of wordy hours, the transcript disclosed that not a syllable of spoken testimony was given and that the heavy, unprecedented silence was broken by only a few words from the bench, announcing the necessary formalities of recesses and adjournment and a stray tilt between counsel toward the close.

"Now," remarked a weary attorney as the curious day ended, "I've seen everything."

Examine Exhibits

The session was devoted to the examination of Government exhibits by the jury. These included lengthy bulletins of the American Nationalist Confederation, a self-styled Fascist party which was headed by George E. Deatherage, a defendant, and other documents. Correspondence attributed to other defendants was among the papers which the jurors read.

It looked as if the day would pass without a word spoken by counsel on either side. But just before adjournment, Ethelbert B. Frey, attorney for Robert E. Edmondson, suggested that the record show with which exhibits the jury had been occupied for five hours.

Prosecutor Rogge said the record of the previous day already disclosed that.

"I don't know what Mr. Rogge has produced," Mr. Frey objected. "We should know."

Implication Expunged

"I don't conduct cases that way," Mr. Rogge retorted. "Maybe you do."

Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher expunged Mr. Frey's implication from the record and court was adjourned for the day.

The session was marked by the return of Mrs. Lois de Lafayette Washburn, a defendant, who had been absent, with the court's permission, for something like three months. Mrs. Washburn has had a job which prevented her from attending the trial. Frank W. Clark, another defendant who has been away for a month for a similar reason, also was back for the day. The two took their old seats beside their attorney, Ira Chase Koehne.

Applies for Defendants

Mrs. Washburn had a bag of apples for Hans Diebel, another of the 26 alleged conspirators on trial. Diebel passed around the apples to other defendants.

Our Washington Letter

By CHARLES BENSON in B'nai B'rith Messenger

WASHINGTON,—On the United States Supreme Court docket awaiting an opinion from the highest court in the country are two cases testing whether the use of a scapegoat is Constitutional.

Two American citizens have demanded to know whether they were treated in accordance with U. S. law when, solely because of their ancestry, they and more than 100,000 others were taken from their homes and imprisoned in concentration camps thousands of miles away.

Anti-Jap Hate

Groups of native American fascists on the West Coast have resented and hated the Japanese-Americans since they first came to this country, in any numbers, at the beginning of this century. They were viewed as economic rivals and all nature and form of discriminatory legislation was passed against them in the Pacific states. After the attack on Pearl Harbor, these anti-Japanese pressure groups called for the removal of all persons of Japanese ancestry—presumably to guard against sabotage and espionage, and to protect the Japanese from the Filipinos. The noise was loud enough; Pacific Coast Congressmen added their voices. Early in the spring, Lt. General John L. DeWitt, acting on authority given the army by the President, issued the order that started the greatest forced migration in U. S. history.

Legality Questioned

Now Fred Korematsu, a 26-year-old Nisei who was born in Oakland, Calif., and had never been out of the state, wants to know whether it's legal. He contends that the Presidential order authorizing the War Department to set up military areas and to exclude any or all persons from these areas, did not contemplate evacuation; and that the evacuation resulted in imprisonment, which was unconstitutional and not contemplated by the President or Congress.

Korematsu, who registered for Selective Service and was rejected for a physical defect, had temporary employment as a welder until dismissed because of his ancestry. Then he worked in his father's nursery. When he was ordered to leave California, he deliberately remained, feeling that the order was illegal and certainly unjust. He was convicted for failure to comply with the original order, placed on probation, and sent to one of the centers. He appealed to the Circuit Court which declared his case was not appealable; the Supreme Court, however, reversed this decision. In his case, the Supreme Court is asked to rule on the Constitutionality of evacuation and detention.

The other case was instigated by Mitsuye Endo, a 24-year-old Sacramento girl who was employed as a permanent civil service employee. She was suspended from her job because she was unable to perform her duties while imprisoned. She is contesting the right of the W RA to detain her after her loyalty was established, as it was when those Japanese designated disloyal were segregated in special Relocation Centers. The WRA is at present releasing loyal Japanese who have jobs to go to, but Miss Endo contests the right of detention at all.

Under her case, the Supreme Court might even consider the legality of preventing citizens from returning to California and other out-of-bounds areas; for it is two and one-half years that this small minority has not had the right to return to the Pacific Coast, though they may now take jobs in war plants in the East.

It is very unlikely that the Supreme Court decision, will be retroactive. The evacuation of the Japanese has been accomplished. Getting them relocated and re-established is a major task which will require the cooperation and help of every citizen. But the importance of the court decision is to prevent similar activities in the future. What is to prevent the removal of Negroes from Detroit or Jews from Boston or Mexicans from Texas on the the pretext of preserving order or what you will? The Nazis have demonstrated just exactly what can be done in this respect.

39,664 ALIENS ENTER U. S. BY AIR JULY '43 to May '44

WASHINGTON,— The House Immigration and naturalization committee was informed that 39,664 aliens—of whom 2480 were from Axis or Axis-dominated countries—entered the United States by air between July 1, 1943, and May 30, 1944.

Of this total, 700 were granted permanent residence, according to a report submitted by Attorney General Francis E. Biddle. The bulk of the aliens —31,167 arrived at Miami, Fla., and the balance at La Guardia Field, N. Y.

The figures were supplied in response to a resolution by Representative Clare E. Hoffman, (R., Mich.), asking the number of "refugees and of what nationality and from what countries" who have entered by air since June, 1943.

Biddle's reply stated it was "not practicable to answer either question, there being no legal definition of refugee."

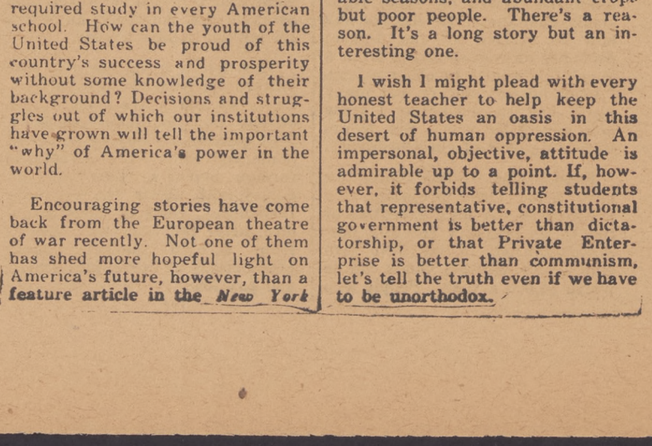
I never could see the point in going to the expense of buying a new part for a furnace just because the old one had a crack in it. As long as it held together, what difference did it make whether it was cracked or not?

That was the question I put to the head of the world's largest installers of home heating equipment, and now I am a much wiser person. In the process of combustion, the oxygen in the air joins up with the carbon of the fuel. The rate of combustion is governed by the amount of oxygen admitted to the fuel—open the draft of a coal fire, and up goes the heat; close it, and the fire is checked. A crack in the firepot becomes a "port of entry" for a continuous admission of oxygen, which in effect sets up a constant draft no matter how tightly the fire is checked through the regular draft control. The fuel burns faster than we want it to, not only making it harder to hold the fire over night, but very definitely running up the cost of heating. So that's why it is cheaper to buy a new firepot than to pay for extra coal wasted by the draft through the crack.

The same thing is true of the joints between the furnace parts. If they become loose, as they are bound to in time because of the joint cement burning out and crumbling away, then the seal is broken and the fire is no longer under proper draft control. Therefore, it is the recommendation of furnace makers to have the furnace taken down every fourth or fifth year and have the joints re-cemented.

A competent inspection of your furnace by a reliable heating man is the best way of playing safe each year.



MOST of the things that really matter in your life and mine are events that took place before we were born. Whether we are rugged or frail, rich or poor, happy or miserable result in large part from decisions and struggles that somebody made long ago. The old saying, "Life is what you make it," is partly true. Life is what you make it from what you had to begin with.

Of course men and women are free moral agents and can do a great deal with their own lives if they will, but the past influences every generation. It affects everybody more or less and has more to do with some people's lives than they do themselves. In order to take from the past what helps us and avoid what hinders, men have to study history and learn its good from its bad.

The Past Is Useful AMERICAN history, and I don't mean a sketchy catalog of wars and elections, should be a required study in every American school. How can the youth of the United States be proud of this country's success and prosperity without some knowledge of their background? Decisions and struggles out of which our institutions have grown will tell the important "why" of America's power in the world.

Encouraging stories have come back from the European theatre of war recently. Not one of them has shed more hopeful light on America's future, however, than a feature article in the New York Times relating that American soldiers in many foreign lands are calling for books on American history. They want to know what makes them different from people they see over there.

A Better Country THIS article quoted a Pennsylvania buck private as saying, "Something in our history makes us different. Why aren't we taught about it at school?" It is my sincere hope and belief that this soldier's children will be taught more about it at school. At least I hope we don't have to wage a foreign war every quarter of a century so our sons can go see how comparatively poor other people are

Our fighters have begun to realize that something goes on in America which encourages and promotes better living than people in foreign countries can enjoy. Farmers' sons in the invasion can't help but see that France, for example, has fertile soil, favorable seasons, and abundant crops but poor people. There's a reason. It's a long story but an interesting one.

I wish I might plead with every honest teacher to help keep the United States an oasis in this desert of human oppression. An impersonal, objective, attitude is admirable up to a point. If, however, it forbids telling students that representative, constitutional government is better than dictatorship, or that Private Enterprise is better than communism, let's tell the truth even if we have to be unorthodox.

The Sonship of God

What is the difference between the rule of Mammon and the rule of God?

If you have eyes to see, ears tc hear and intellectual integrity to think with, the facts are plainly before you.

Victory—at $4 for $3, is the rule of Mammon. The people of the USA BOND themselves to pay $4 within ten years to all who advance $3 now for financing the Allied side of the war. Why does profit out of the world carnage "inspire" the "investment"? In the bargain one throws the lives of the young men and women who are to do the fighting and the dying, the killing and destroying of the "enemy" and his possessions. The "enemy" changes around. For a while Finland was our "friend" while Russia was an "aggressor" of Poland, and then it changed when Russia kept Poland but Hitler turned against Stalin. Japan in the last war was our "ally", in this one our "enemy".

One can see that under the rule of Mammon there is no principle at stake but only EXPEDIENCY. Russia does not propose to adhere to any principle of self-determination for Poland or any other country, save what Stalin determines himself. Neither does Churchill accept self-determination for the colored natives in India and elsewhere.

There is quite a difference between rule of Mammon and the rule of God, and its righteousness.

Mammon says I'll pay you $4 for $3 and you throw into the bargain your own life and freedom and the lives and freedom of your children. You obey me and to doubt me is "sedition" and "demoralizing the armed forces". I am taking the risk, says Mammon, all you do is bond yourself to me and I'll give you 4 to 3 in ten years.

Now comes the Christ and asks you to follow the Golden Rule in place of the rule of gold, Mammon.

To follow Christ you must risk all you have and take your chances on God, OUR Father, who is ALL LOVE, no destruction of other people's lives and territory. But you see Mammon and $4 for $3, your eyes bulge. Does your materialistic mind reason correctly? Does ALL LOVE not offer more than $4 for $3?

How does Mammon produce the payment and the goods to make war? It BONDED YOU and your children's property, lives and labors. It is YOU who is paying for it all from your labors, with soul, mind, body and your life, as well as all those whom you love and cherish, with loss of freedom thru regimentation.

Did Mammon ever give you anything? NEVER! You are giving your all, all the time. You are BONDED to the International Mammon who will levy tribute for generations to come.

In the countries of the "enemy" Mammon also lines them up against you with the same and similar arrangements. The Germans and Japs are fighting just as earnestly and secrificing for the profit of their financiers who are out to cartelize the world and exploit it. This is the rule of Mammon.

After the carnage is over the question will be settled how the Allies are to partition the world and exploit it. Whether German and Jap cartels or Russian and British spheres of influence, it comes to the same, with Uncle Samuel lend-leasing the undertaking.

Did you notice that Mammon produces nothing, you furnish everything but the DIRECTION.

Yes, Mammon controls the direction, it tells you what to do and you gamble on it being the right direction, submitting to Mammon's regimentation, rejecting the Ten Commandments.

Now comes the Christ.

And His rule is that you shall gamble on HIM and OUR Father as you are gambling on the directions of Mammon being right and preferable to God and the Christ. And you are to risk everything to follow the Christ even as He risked everything, obediently always doing good for evil and finally walking up Golgatha, carrying His cross to be nailed to it in the last test of FAITH in OUR Father. The physical sufferings of the man on the cross are no worse than the sufferings of the maimed in war. But the difference is the DIRECTION.

Mammon directs you to break God's commandments, the Christ directs you to obey God's commandments. In both cases you risk all you have and are taking a chance on having your children killed and maimed.

There is more rape going on now than ever before.

Whose is the wiser choice? He who risks everything to follow the example of the Christ or he who chosese to bond himself at the rate of 4 for 3? Whose rule prevails in the end? God or Mammon? Did Mammon ever produce paradise or did the result spell more wars and worse sacrifices?

"Seek ye therefore FIRST the Rule of God and its righteousness," and you will get even more than 4 for 3, you will get the power inherent in the SONSHIP of God, for in obedience to HIM you will utilize all this courage by which continents are being laid waste and men women killed and maimed, to bring joy, love and comforts to all in superabundance.

Such is the promise of the Son of God for all the children of God. That is why mankind worships the Christ-child, the Prince of Peace.

CHATS WITH GLADYS

"Honi Soit Qui Mal Y Pense"

Having to get out the paper every week, doing the physical work of proof reading, make-up and finally folding, by hand, on top of all the nervous and mental strain of editing and financing, leaves me quite tired at times when Saturday evening comes around. So driving away from the printshop I did not feel like going home to cook supper. Fred's mother had invited me the previous evening, for with this six page edition I work now two days at the shop, but on Saturday she was doing the night shift at her job, so I decided within a few blocks of my residence to drive to Glady's place instead and take pot luck. If my presence is inconvenient I can just say helloh and beat it back for home.

"Oh, I din't expect you tonight, Kosti", was her supprised greeting, "but I am glad you came. I just had my supper, did you have yours?"

"That's really why I came, Gladys, I am all puckered out and simply hated the idea of having to drag myself along to first cook mine, so I decided at the last moment to take a chance on being welcome or a pest on you . . "

"Sh, sh, you are always welcome here and never a pest. Even a temporary inconvenience turns out profitable, you always make it worth my while, in fact I have a few problems on my mind and after I feed you I'll tell you about it. Would you like some cream tomato soup? I've got a can and what else should I get you, some papaya tea?"

"Just these two with some toast is all I really care for."

"But that is not enough, you have worked hard".

"Listen here, child. If you fuss about me you-'ll spoil the whole pleasure of dropping in on you. I am not very hungry, I am more weary than anything else and want a cheerful girl around, not one who fusses".

"Allright, grampa, I'll just heat the soup and make the toast and be a good girl."

"That's better, now what have you on your mind?"

"I am so happy to have your friendship", said Gladys, "I wish nothing would ever happen to break it up".

"Keep in mind what Simon Peter said to Jesus before the crucifixion. He, too, assured the master of his undying loyalty, but what happened during the test? He swore that he never knew the man. Be on your guard, watch these sentimental impulses in yourself. Too much of anything is always unbalancing. Place the emphasis on your love of God. Hold on to that. Cultivate it, watch yourself, always put the RULE of God and the Righteousness of that Rule above your own notions, then, you will keep the friendship and love of those who equally worship God. It brings you into their sphere. That is the only assurance you have."

"That's exactly why I am happy to know you, Kosti. You attract me when you need me, you stand by me when I need you, but as soon as I make a sort of tingod out of you you slap me down and wake me up."

"Child, one must be absolutely honest with himself. I know my faults and shortcomings and because I really love you, I must protect you against myself. There is a tendency in human flesh to want ease and comfort. It is more comfortable to yield to the sweetness of a loving friend and accept the delight of it as if it were the last word of heaven, but human flesh is full of shortcomings, so that one has always to be on guard and use discretion. Enjoy the good but make no idol of another. We are all longing for heaven, to that extent, then, do we enjoy the harmonies of heaven in the company of another equally talented. But each has to learn, and there comes a limit to what one is able to do. When the end comes, if you learned to rely on God, you are not wounded as the flaws become plain in the one you loved. In fact you anticipated it and help him to outgrow them."

"This is the subject I wanted to discuss with you, So many people imagine that all they have to do is BELIEVE in Jesus Christ being the Son of God who died on the cross for their sins and that would insure eternal heaven for them".

"This superstition is produced by the fallacy that God is NOT the living God. They imagine that eternity begins after death, but eternity is NOW. Eternal LIFE is now, there is no beginning or end. LIFE is life and nothing else, death cannot destroy it, merely changes it's way of expression. The living entity, the spark of God, in you, in me, never dies and was never created. We are the children of God, as eternal as the Father, of the same substance, beyond space, time and causation, even though we manifest in space, time and cause all the manifold expressions in daily life. While one places God away from HERE and NOW, LIFE is divorced in such minds from God. But God is the God of the living, NOW and HERE, not of the dead and eternal life is now, not after death."

"You know, Kosti, it is easy for me to see these truths when you are presenting them, but when you are away, I wonder sometimes why there is so much misery in the world if we are children of God. I mean if all of us are children of God."

"Every school child has this experience. When the teacher explains and illustrates a problem on the blackboard or with logic, it is clear and simple, but after the child went home and tried to recall what it is and how it works, he often gets all mixed up and confused. And so it is with our friendship. In my company I concentrate on impressing you with the clear outlines; it helps you to follow me, but when you are out of my sight other influences confuse you because everybody must produce his own brain mechanism and rearrange it through practice until the THOUGHT becomes engraved, engrooved, and you are able to visualize it at will."

"You mean, then, that Jesus gave us the example of how to proceed to gain mastery over the fears and shortcomings of the flesh, and all who BELIEVE it will follow suit and do likewise. That brings them salvation, I mean their doing as he did, not the mere belief, as the priests say."

"You've got the idea. Jesus enabled us to see how it is done and that because he did it, we can do it also, and even greater things than these, he announced, we shall do eventually, as we strive after God's RULE and its Righteousness first. But the labor, the disclpine, the living example of heaven on earth, each of us must produce. No man can eat for you, think for you, grow for you. That is your function. But if you love me, trust me and listen to me, I can teach you and show you how. That is what Jesus did for us, and that is what every mother does for her child. That's the great responsibility of parenthood as well as of friendship, to be a good example and faithful to the end."

"Why is it that those who claim to bring freedom and salvation always enslave the people? I mean the priests with their superstitions, as you explained about Jesus, the labor unions about improving the lot of the workers and the politicians about bringing peace, prosperity and ending all wars forever by going all out for war and conscription. Why do the Jews call you anti-Semitic and seditious when you really live up better to their own principles of Monotheism and loyalty to the oath as a citizen, than they do?"

"They want power. The lust for power is a terrible drug, it blinds and dopes them, then they get hallucinations and they imagine they are the rulers of this universe. Anyone who questions this nonsense is proscribed, boycotted, liquidated, as they call it. That's why they stoned and killed the prophets, that's why they always strive to get control of commerce, politics, the press, education and amusements. The lust for power got to their heads."

"What can we do to stop it?"

"Mind our own business. Never give in. Assert our own God-given rights to Life, Liberty and Pursuit of Happiness inspite of all the trickery and misleading promises of the foxy tribe in labor unions and in all organizations that are being used to enslave the people and exploit them. Each one has to take up his own cross and dare to assert his God-given rights. We have them, if we individually fail to use them, we cannot blame God."

"But, Kosti, they claim you are spreading hatred and disloyalty."

"Darling, that's what they accused even Jesus Christ of and crucified him for it, the hatred of the truth is in them, not in me. I hate nobody, but equally I fear nobody and refuse to bow before their tyranny."

Pangs of Conscience

When the Army finds a man physically unfit for military service, it sends him back to civilian life with the hope that his abilities will make a contribution to the war effort. When it finds a man psychologically unfit for military service, it does the same thing. But when it finds a man conscientiously unfit—that is unable to render military service because of conscientious scruples—it treats him in quite different fashion. It packs him off to something called a Civilian Public Service Camp and assigns him to something called "work of national importance" without taking any accounut whatever of his ability to render more useful service in some other sphere.

Consider the case of Don Charles DeVault by way of illustration. When this country entered the war, Dr. DeVault was engaged in teaching and research in physical chemistry at Stanford University in California. He had earned his Ph. D. at the University of California the preceding year. By order of his local Selective Service Board, he was classified II-A and given a six-month deferment on occupational grounds, although he had asked to be classified IV-E as a conscientious objector, as, on his record and his beliefs, he was. Later he was deferred again, this time in class II-B, indicating that his work at the university was considered essential to the war effort.

The following year, however, a Government appeal agent challenged his classification, and the appeal board placed him in 1-A-O for noncombat service. He refused induction into the Army, was arrested, tried and sentenced to 18 months in the Federal Penitentiary at McNeil Island. When he had served half this term, he was paroled, reclassified IV-E (which was what he had requested originally) and sent to the Civilian Public Service labor camp at Mancos, Colo. There from 7:30 in the morning to 5 in the afternoon, he dug ditches, picked up rocks and drove trucks. But in his leisure time he teamed up with another chemist in the camp and began research into the molds from which penicillin is produced. To carry on this research work more effectively he asked for detached service. "As I work with a shovel or lean on it or drive a truck during the 51 hours per week that I am prevented from being useful in any way comparable to what I can do or to the world situation," he wrote, "I cannot help but worry about the problem. It is not that we object to making sacrifices, because we do not. It is the uselessness of the particular sacrifices that the authorities designate for us".

The sole outcome of this plea was an order transferring him to the Government camp at Germfask in northern Michigan where rebellious or "noncooperative" objectors are concentrated. There he began again his penicillin research. He gave up his furlough time to carry it on. He purchased equipment out of the $5 monthly allowance granted to him by Selective Service. When his experiments had reached what seemed to him a fruitful stage and when his parole period had expired, he appealed again for detached service. He was refused. In turn, he refused to report for the regular camp assignments. "Henceforth," he declared, "I shall be reporting for work on penicillin or related subjects." He has been arrested and is now awaiting another sentence to prison.

If there is any sense in this wasting of a man's skill, we cannot see it. If there is any justice in this punishment of a man because of his conscience, it is beyond our discernment. We say that this is stupid and ugly—and unbecoming to a great free people engaged in a war for the freedom of the human conscience.—Washington Post.

ELECTORAL COLLEGE AMENDMENT... ROOSEVELT'S APPEARANCE

By WASHINGTON ADAMS

WASHINGTON (Special), Nov. 26.— What one danger must the people of a republic guard against, above other perils?

It is the danger that the chief executive may determine to stay in power too long, and succeed in doing so.

Senator Bushfield of South Dakota has introduced a proposed Constitutional Ammendment, providing for the abolition of the electoral system, and the substitution of a direct plurality vote of the entire people for the office of the Presidency, without regard to State lines.

This is a vicious measure and would result in grave injury to our Republic.

It would greatly add to the power of an Administration in power, and might make it well nigh impossible to remove it from office.

It is amazing that such an evil measure should be introduced by a supposed Republican, of all persons.

I shall review briefly just a few of its many defects.

In the first place it would weaken the power of the States, already gravely undermined by the New Deal's centralized government.

It would encourage the New Deal to exert still greater movements in demagoguery—the legalized buying of "boob" votes with public relief expenditures. They already have corralled about 10,000,000 by this method.

It would encourage a State like Georgia, which has only 12 electoral votes at present—only a little over 2 per cent of the whole, to turn in a million popular New Deal majority, thus giving that State a voice of nearly FIVE PERCENT in the New Deal Socialist party.

Georgia's election laws are nearly as bad as those of South Carolina, which has no secret ballot. Either State could muster at least 500,000 majority, if called upon to do so in such an election as the vicious Bushfield amendment contemplates.

On the other hand, to enforce the amendment a national election law would have to be enacted. Federal soldiers might be sent into such States as South Carolina and Mississippi, to see that the illiterate Negroes voted, thus turning several Southern States over to the Negroes, with consequent race riots and bad feelings.

While State's rights would be weakened and the central oligarchy strengthened, the power of local "machines" would swell immeasurably.

The temptation to demagoguery, VOTE BUYING and VOTE STEALING, would be ENORMOUSLY INCREASED.

The votes of the "riffraff" (as well as those of all others) would no longer act only upon the State's ELECTORAL vote, but would ACT DIRECTLY upon the NATIONAL RESULT.

In a close election, fraudulent manipulation of the ballot in a remote precinct or district in a far away Louisiana or New Mexico might swing the whole election.

The official inauguration might be held up for weeks, while crookedness was being investigated and fought out in the courts.

Lincoln was a minority President in the popular vote in 1860. About a MILLION MORE people voted against him than voted for him. (The Democratic vote was divided).

Arkansas' new Senator Fullbright has introduced a much more sensible Amendment. It proposes that State's rights shall be retained in the national elections, but that the electoral vote of each State shall be apportioned according to the popular vote.

For example, if in 1948 Bricker for the G. O. P. receives one vote more than those for Roosevelt in the State of South Dakota, each candidate would receive two votes, instead of the whole four going to the one with majority vote of that State, as hitherto.

BUT WHY KEEP UP THE VICIOUS CONVENTION SYSTEM? It picks neither the ablest nor the best man for the Presidency, but THE MAN IT THINKS WILL MAKE THE BEST RACE.

And, once elected, he will practice DEMAGOGUERY, catering to MINORITY GROUPS, spending relief money riotously, IN THE PROCESS OF BUYING HIS WAY "LEGALY" INTO A SECOND OR SUBSEQUENT TERMS OF OFFICE.

The first six Presidents—WASHINGTON, J. ADAMS, JEFFERSON, MADISON, MONROE and J. Q. ADAMS— were selected by the ELECTORS, who in turn had been appointed by the Legislators, as the Constitution provides.

Not one of these six Presidents—the ablest group in our history—was ever NOMINATED by a convention or voted for by the people.

Ours is the ONLY important country in the world which uses the demogogic "convention" system and the "popular" vote to pick the lesser of two evils in a national election.

THE VERY BASIS OF OUR REPUBLIC IS A "GOVERNMENT OF LAWS AND NOT OF MEN".

To conduct these elections as at present, and since 1900, is to raise the issue of PERSONALITY and to substitute a GOVERNMENT OF MEN for a government of LAWS; or "dictatorship" instead of "rule by the people".

Prior to 1900, national elections were on the basis of PRINCIPLE—high tariff vs. low tariff, or gold standard vs. the double standard, etc. Personalities were subordinated to principles.

It is reasonable to believe that if our country had stuck to its electoral system and the Constitution, we should have had no Civil War, no Wilson and no World War I, no Roosevelt and and no World War II. (We might have had a President who would have prevented the European outbreak in 1939; and an abler President than Wilson would have stopped World War I before it reached its disastrous stage).

* * * *

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is shown in the news-reels, opening the Sixth War Bond drive. Many were surprised and saddened at his aged, almost haggard appearance.

The Presidency is known to be a "killing" job. Mr. Roosevelt looked to be around 85, or 90!

What's the Vice-Presidency for, if not to give a tired President an occasional vacation?

A month's absolute rest in Florida sunshine might bring him back to the vigorous FDR of old.

Gerald Smith Stars Mrs. Dilling in a Song and Prance Act

DETROIT,— Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling, of Chicago, one of the 26 defendants of the mass sedition trial in Washington, D. C., made her debut Wednesday night as a platform performer with Gerald L. K. Smith's America First Party.

Revealing a capacity for histrionics, mimicry and plain oldfashioned "mugging", Mrs. Dilling scored her biggest hit with the 350 Smith followers who crowded the Italian Garden ballroom of the Book-Cadillac Hotel, as a chanteuse, although of indeterminable classification.

Her repertoire consisted almost entirely of songs and ridicule directed at the many objects of her disaffection as she told what she called "the inside story of this farcical sedition trial" and warned of the menace of communism—a menace, she said, that extends even to the National Institute of Applied Religion and the Federated Council of Churches.

Opens With A Song

Introduced by Smith as "the best informed woman in the United States on subversive elements in America", Mrs. Dilling opened by singing in a shaky falsetto-soprano, or thereabouts, a number she called, "This trial of mine goes on and on."

Then came a number dedicated to Walter Winchell, the newspaper columnist and radio commentator whom Smith had described as "the finger-man of our opposition." She said it was based on a statement by Winchell that the Government prosecutor was "en route to Chicago to drag Liz Dilling back to Washington in handcuffs."

There were several other renditions, and the concluding selection was a parody of "Praise the Lord and Pass The Ammunition." She called it "Praise the Lord and Jail Perdition," and it contained the lines, "the Jew Dealers said it, you gotta give 'em credit."

The prosecution witnesses, she said, "either are working for the international pro-Communist, Jewish B'nai B'rith, or are FBI agents."

A resolution was adopted by the group authorizing that a committee headed by Smith and appointed by Smith be formed to call on the Senate Judiciary Committee in Washington to investigate the "entire conduct, background and procedure involved in handling this trial."

The resolution also authorized that a request be made to suspend the trial during the period of the Senate investigation.

"To date—seven months after the trial started—not one piece of evidence has been offered in support of the charge of sedition," Mrs. Dillig declared.

'Spreading Poison'

The "Communistic Jews," Mrs.Dilling said, are "spreading their poison everywhere."

"Right here in Detroit," she went on, "the Institute of Applied Religion, headed by the Rev. Claude Williams, has decided on a whole Communist Party line, is working against the Christian ministers in our churches and receiving Soviet rubles for spreading atheistic communism."

In a period of questions and answers after Mrs. Dilling had completed her address, recitals and songs, she was asked: "Do you think some of the leaders of the Federated Council of Churches are Communists?"

"Yes, there's no question about it," she answered.

Sidney Hillman, she said, "has been a fellow-traveler all the way down, except for those mock battles occasionally. He's just a Red Russian Jew."

In his introduction, Smith, asserting that "as the leader of a movement I must make a statement on the election," declared that the Republicans had "lost the election because of Hillman's aggressiveness and Dewey's hypocrisy."

How To Run A Sedition Trial

By Eugene Eustace

In a trial for sedition,
A la Spanish Inquisition,
You must start with a suspicion
That is buncombe on its face.

Then from long moronic musin'
You must add to the confusion
With a load of vague allusion
As to personnel and place.

With an air of great requitement,
You must work up some excitement
As you fashion an indictment
Like the flimsiest of gauze.

Then with phony indignation,
You concoct insinuation
Based on misinterpretation
Of some ill-constructed laws.

Brew a fair-appearing batter
Of inconsequential patter,
Guaranteed to smear and spatter
All and sundry whom you hate.

Fill it full of—double portions—
Weasel talk and word contortions,
Twisted meanings and abortions
That your fancy may create.

Make the dosage nice and smelly
With the help of Machiavelli
From the land of vermicelli.
That will help to cloud the brain.

In a manner most capricious,
Stuff your demagogic thesis
With the fanciful and specious
O'er and o'er and o'er again.

Search the musty social attic
For a lawyerlike fanatic
Who is raucous and symphatic
With, of course, avoirdupois.

Let him rant and rave and ravel
On the very lowest level
Known to human fiend or devil
With a fog-creating noise.

With this rubber-stamp New Dealer
For a prosecuting spieler,
An accomplished word-unreeler,
You can keep the pot aboil.

Add a lot of backstage supers,
Syllogistic loop-the-loopers
Highly trained as loyal snoopers
To eschew all honest toil.

Get a judge who knows his party,
Whose support is whole and hearty,
One you're certain from the start he
Will obey his master's will.

Let the judge, with his attendants,
Squelch all signs of independence
By the lawyers or defendants
You have chosen for the kill.

In the prosecutor barges
With inflammatory charges
Which the poison press enlarges.
That's a factor in the game.

All veracity discarding,
All proportion disregarding,
Now he throws his mud according
To a stunted sense of shame.

To induce misapprehendo,
He must utter innuendo
With fortissimo crescendo
As a substitute for facts.

With a histrionic fury
He must bomb the helpless jury
With a highly-spiced potpourri
Of non-evidential acts.

The selection of a witness
Must depend upon his fitness
For a certain miss-and-hitness
As to facts he wants to hide.

He must seek at each occasion
To be agile in evasion,
In resolving an equation
On the prosecution side.

That is how, without compunctions,
Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal functions,
When his arrogant injunctions
Are opposed by any foe.

Such a thing of hate and bile
Is a great sedition trial,
In the modern New Deal style.
What a shame it should be so!

BANTA SENTENCED AS 'ANTI-SEMITE'

NEW YORK,—A three Judge court of Special Sessions, all Jews, sentenced Edwin P. Banta, 73, to an indeterminate term in City prison not to exceed one year, on the misdemeanor charge of conspiring to frame Carlson-Drounian of "Under Cover" on a rape allegation. Judge Irving Ben Cooper denounced Banta as an anti-Semite.

EFFORTS of DEFENSE TO IDENTIFY 'MRS. L. FRY' FAIL in SEDITION TRIAL

WASHINGTON,— Mrs. L. Fry, mentioned frequently, as the prosecution's case against the 26 defendants in the sedition trial has been unfolded, remained a woman of mytery, despite efforts of defense attorneys to shed more light on her origin and activities.

The woman's name appears in a number of Prosecution exhibits in evidence and she has been mentioned by several witnesses as collaborating with certain defendants in their asserted campaign against Communism.

Albert W. Dilling, counsel for Elizabeth Dilling, brought out from Henry D. Allen, a prosecution witness, that Mrs. Fry had said her real name was Mme. de Shismareff.

Question Ruled Out

"Was she an agent of the Soviet OGPU?" asked the attorney.

Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher sustained an objection from Chief Prosecutor O. John Rogge.

On one occasion, Mr. Allen said, when he was living in Dallas, Tex., he was summoned by William Power Maloney, former chief prosecutor in the case, to take a plane to New York to identify Mrs. Fry. The witness quoted Mr. Maloney as saying: "We have old lady Fry here in the clink," and adding that she was under indictment.

When he arrived in New York, Mr. Allen testified , he was informed he would not be needed, because Mrs. Fry had admitted her identity.

"Where your expenses paid on that trip?" Mr. Dilling asked.

Lost on Trip

Mr. Allen said he got so much a mile, and, when the expenses were totaled, he was out $86 of his own money.

The witness testified to a break with Mrs. Fry, with whom he formerly had been friendly. He said he had nothing more to do with her when she tried to get him to damage the home of a "Jewish agent." He also described how some of the defendants were suspicious of Mrs. Fry and suspected she was a Communist spy.

10-YEAR LAND WAR WITH JAPAN FORSEEN

WASHINGTON,—Washington officialdom is mentally prepared for a 10-year war of attrition with Japan on the Asiatic mainland, exacting all the strength the United States can summon.

Acknowledging that the face of the Far Eastern conflict has become starkly forbidding within two months' time, the War Production Board announced indefinite postponement of a contemplated statement naming industries which were to have been released from war production promptly after the defeat of Germany.

The announcement meant the abandonment of the last of the reconversion plans which were in such bright flower during the country's disastrous wave of false optimism late last summer.

Representative Bertrand W. Gearhart, California Republican, predicted major fighting for at least 10 years in China, and pointed to the geographical facts of the Oriental conflict and the tremendous Japanese conquests in factory centers, mineral fields and good producing areas.

War Production Board officials said that the war-making empire Japan has created in China, and what it portends in the time and material needed to crush it, leaves no choice but to plan now for immensely costly land campaigns of indefinite duration.

Those land campaigns, it was pointed out, have not yet even started.

BOARD CHARGES S. F. NEWSPAPER

SAN FRANCISCO,—The state railroad commission, in an unusual exercise of its power, called executives of the San Francisco Examiner before it on contempt proceedings.

The commission, which regulates rates, services and practices of all utilities, in California, contended that the newspaper reported the Aug. 11 meeting of the commission in a manner that held the commissioners up to ridcule and scorn. The August hearing was on the commission's investigation of war profits taxes, with relation to utilities.

Under Special Act

Under a special section of the state law the railroad commission is empowered to institute such contempt proceedings, and to impose a fine as much as $500 if the commission, exercising the functions of a court, finds a defendant guilty. The Examiner was accused of contempt on four counts.

The Examiner, its publisher, two editors and Hearst Publications, Inc., were named as defendants.
